

Center for *T*eaching *E*xcellence

What Do Students Think They've Learned? How to Design an Assessment Survey to Find Out

Thursday, October 21, 2010
12:15 pm – 1:15 pm in CTE
University Hall 3030

Surveys can be used to collect all types of information. But how do you design a survey to collect evidence of student learning?

In this workshop you will learn how to design an assessment survey to find out what your students think they've learned in your program. This workshop will help you understand the differences between assessment surveys and other surveys, and the pros and cons of conducting an assessment survey.

We will practice writing survey questions during the workshop. Consider bringing your program's learning outcomes to help you start developing your own survey!

Lunch will be included, please RSVP to assessment@lmu.edu or Ext.82628
Visit us on the web at www.lmu.edu/cte