Students participating in any activity must be informed of any risk to their person or property before engaging in the activity or leaving campus for a trip. An “Informed Consent” document provides participants with important details to make an informed decision whether or not to participate in an extracurricular activity.

Responsibility

- Organizations planning activities such as outdoor competitions, off-campus trips or events including inflatable activities must inform participants of any possible risks to them or their property.
- Anyone traveling on club-related business, such as to a conference or service project, must acknowledge the risks involved.

Implementation

- The “Informed Consent” document may be obtained from Student Leadership & Development. It must be tailored by a Student Leadership & Development staff member to suit the organization’s specific activity, listing the range of known risks involved.
- Student Leadership & Development requires the following details to prepare the document:
  - Organization name and contact person
  - Name of event or activity
  - Actual date(s) of the event or activity (do not include travel day(s), unless travel cost is paid by the organization)
  - Location
  - Means of travel (travel by personal vehicle is preferred)
  - Advisor’s name and phone number
- Organizations are responsible for distributing “Informed Consent” documents to participants and returning them to Student Leadership & Development. For off-campus trips, documents must be turned in prior to leaving campus. For on-campus events, documents must be turned in the next business day.
- Each participant must read and sign the “Informed Consent” document. It is acceptable to provide one document that all participants sign.
